Blood Poison
THE BANE OF HUMAN LIFE,
Driven Out of the System by the Use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla

"For five years, I was a great sufferer from a most persistent blood disease, none of the various medicines I took being of any help whatever. Hoping that change of climate would benefit me, I went to Cuba, to Florida, and then to Saratoga Springs, where I remained some time drinking the waters. But all was no use. At last, being advised by several friends to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla, I began taking it, and very soon favorable results were manifest. To-day I consider myself a perfectly healthy man, with a good appetite and not the least trace of my former complaint. To all my friends, and especially young men like myself, I recommend Ayer's Sarsaparilla, if in need of a perfectly reliable blood-purifier." — JOSE A. ESCOBAR, proprietor Hotel Victoria, Key West, Fla.; residence, 352 W. 16th St., New York.

THE CRISIS IN FRANCE.

A crisis in the public affairs of France seldom fails to present dramatic and picturesque features which make French politics of greater spectacular interest to alien onlookers than the politics of any other country. The rapidly approaching climax in the fate of the present government at Paris is by no means lacking in the mixture of the melodramatic and farcical elements. The weapons being employed in what has now become a desperate struggle are quite unknown to ordinary political warfare. Take, for instance, the government campaign against the press, for that apparently is the real significance of the prosecutions of blackmailing editors. There has been for several months what seems an insane determination on the part of a large section of the sensational press to incite a warlike hatred of their neighbors, chiefly England, in the minds of the French people. The government has been at its wits' ends as to how to check this dangerous and incendiary spirit, which daily grew stronger and more defiant. The exposure of the blackmail scandals furnished an opportunity to discredit the entire press and greatly weaken its influence, of which the authorities, under ministerial direction, were not slow to take full advantage. The charges against a large class of Paris journalists are true, and the government's rigorous pursuit is fully justified, although its motive is not disinterested love of justice.

There would be probably an easy triumph of the government over its journalistic enemies if it were not for the startling and embarrassing dilemma of the cabinet, only hints of which as yet have reached its critics. It grows out of the Dreyfus treason scandal, which still holds public resentment at a high pitch throughout France. The popular opinion has almost unanimously condemned in advance the accused captain of selling important military secrets to Germany, and it demands a public trial and the swiftest and severest punishment. This feeling is largely due to certain indiscreet utterances by General Mercier, minister of war, about the case, and it is now well understood that the cabinet is hopelessly divided into groups, headed by Mercier and Hanotaux, the foreign secretary.—Paris Letter.

THE MIRACLES OF LOURDES.

A Meeting In Paris at Which Zola Was Refuted by Living Witnesses.

We have had in Paris an absolutely new spectacle, for one night only. Fifteen persons who declare that they were miraculously cured of terrible diseases presented themselves for inspection at a lecture given by Dr. Boissarie of the bureau des constatations at Lourdes. Dr. Boissarie's object was to refute various statements made by M. Zola in his book on Lourdes, and in order to prove that the cures which take place at the scene of Bernadette's visions are truly miraculous he brought from various parts of France 15 persons healed within the last two or three years at Lourdes of diseases which medical science had pronounced incurable.

Among these was the young woman, Marie Lemarchand, who figures in M. Zola's book as Elsie Rouquet. She went to Lourdes horribly disfigured with lupus, which had partly destroyed her nose and mouth and spread over her whole face. Zola gives a realistic description of her appearance, which is anything but pleasant reading. It was nevertheless read at the meeting, and then Marie was asked to stand up and show her face. As she did so there was a general exclamation of wonder. The victim of lupus whom the doctors had abandoned had become again quite a pretty, fresh faced country girl whom medical men declared to be perfectly healthy. Another subject was a man who was pronounced at the Saltpetiere hospital to be suffering from paralysis and blindness caused by atrophy of the optic nerves. He went to Lourdes and recovered his sight and health instantaneously. Then there was a girl who was cured of a cancer which was so bad that a surgeon refused to operate upon it, and another of a wound in the foot caused by caries of the bone.

This procession of miracules and the medical diagnoses and certificates which were read produced an extraordinary impression. The audience was largely composed of doctors and medical students.—Paris Cor. Boston Transcript.

Embracing the Opportunity.

I. F. Morris of 413 East Twelfth street recently appealed to the Humane society for protection from his wife. He is a sickly looking man, while she is a robust woman. Morris is smooth shaven. His wife wears a small black mustache. When Mr. and Mrs. Morris were taken to the central police station, Mrs. Morris asked the captain:

"How much is my bond?"

"Ten dollars."

She deposited $10 for her appearance in court and a like amount for her husband's release.

"I don't want to get out," said the husband.

"Why not?" demanded Mrs. Morris.

"Because I want one night's rest," he said.

The jailer led him away to a cell.—Kansas City Times.

The Argenteuil Holy Coat.

The chemical examination of the stains on the holy coat of Argenteuil, set on foot by the Bishop of Versailles, has resulted in a report by the two scientific experts engaged that the spots are of human blood and are very old.—Versailles Letter.

A Hitch In the Transfer.

FOR HIS BRAVERY.

In the summer of the year 1346 Edward III crossed the English channel with 30,000 men to invade France. At Crecy, not far from the Seine, he was met on the 26th of August by King Philip with 130,000.

While the French were coming on in great disorder there was a total eclipse of the sun, accompanied by a terrible storm, after which the sun came out brightly, shining directly in the faces of the French, but on the backs of the English.

The first charge was made by 15,000 Genoese bowmen, who came forward with a shout, as though to scare the English. The latter, who had been ordered to lie flat on the earth, now arose, stepped forward a pace and let go their arrows so fast that they seemed like blinding snow.

The Genoese fled, and the French king ordered them to be cut down, so that they would not hinder the rest of the army.

In the meantime Edward, the prince of Wales, who was in command of one division, was surrounded by French knights, who, recognizing his rank, determined to capture or kill him. A message was sent to the king telling him that the prince was hard pressed.

"Is my son dead or hurt or on the earth felled?" he asked.

"No, sire," was the reply.

"Well, then," said the king, "return to them that sent you and tell them to send no more to me as long as my son is alive. I command them to suffer the child to win his spurs, for this day should be his."

The young prince was indeed in great danger. At one time he was unhorsed and struck to the ground, but one of his Welsh knights, who carried the great dragon standard, threw it over him as he lay and stood upon it till the enemy was forced back.

Soon the tide of battle had turned for the English. Edward came down from a high hill overlooking the field and took his son in his arms and kissed him.

"You are my true son," he said. "Right royally have you acquitted yourself and shown yourself to be a sovereign."

Young Edward on this occasion wore a suit of black armor, which so contrasted with his crimson and gold surcoat and the brilliantly fair complexion of his round, boyish face that he was called from that time the Black Prince.—Boston Herald.

Business Competition.

Billboard competition runs pretty high nowadays in the metropolis. An owner of some down town property was awakened by the loud ringing of his doorbell recently in Harlem.

"What on earth is that?" he exclaimed. "Is the house on fire?"

"Somebody's dead," said his wife. In the meantime a servant was returning from answering the bell.

"Please, sir, there's two gents down stairs as wishes to see you," said the girl.

"See me? Why, it's 3 o'clock in the morning."

"Important business, they says, sir."

"Well, I should think it would be, waking a man up this time o' night. I'll have to go down, I suppose."

He quickly threw on some clothing and went below. Two "gents" awaited him in the hall.

"I beg your pardon, sir, for knocking you up at this hour, but I want to make you a proposition for billboards around the corner of your place on Blank street while you are rebuilding. Name your figures, including two theater tickets every night of the season."

"And, sir," began the other "gent," "my company would like to make you a proposition for the use of the walls that may remain standing after the fire."

"Fire! Fire! What are you talking about?" The old man was completely nonplused.

"Why, your place caught fire about two hours ago," said the first "gent."

"And is gutted by this time," added the second "gent."

"Of course you'll give me the refusal for billboards. Remember the two theater tickets!" yelled the first "gent" as the old man bolted for the stairs.—Cor. Pittsburg Dispatch.

A High Calling.

Judge Sulzberger spoke a truth which is too often forgotten when he said, in a speech at the high school, that "there is not a teacher in the land that has a higher function than has the lowest teacher in the lowest class of the primary school. They have souls before them, and the faculties of those active, restless souls have all to be called forth." In these few fitting words are embraced the whole scope and possibilities of education, and they make the primary teacher's calling in point of dignity and responsibility the peer of any vocation that concerns mankind.—Philadelphia Record.

Color and Warmth.

The color of one's clothing has considerable to do with one's comfort in summer or winter. When exposed to the sunlight, white, it is said, receives 100 degrees F.; pale straw color, 102; dark yellow, 140; light green, 155; dark green, 168; turkey red, 165; blue, 198, and black, 208. Assuming that this table is correct, the person who dresses in light colors during the summer has about double the protection from the heat that the man or woman in black has.—Lancaster Homeopathic Envoy.

Borgne, the name of a Louisiana lake, is a French word meaning "blind of one eye." The name was applied to the lake because of a wonderful monster said to have been seen in its waters.

Were it not for the multitude of storks that throng to Egypt every winter there would be no living in the country, for after every inundation frogs appear in most incredible numbers.

"THE GREAT SHE."

Her Tribesmen Say Her Age Is Three Hundred Years.

Is it Mr. Rider Haggard's "She" who has just fallen into the hands of the Boers? The Lydenburg correspondent of South Africa sends to that paper an interesting account of the capture of the "Queen Majajie, or Great She," who seems to have had a wonderful history.

"A peculiar fact is that her own tribe have never seen her. Only her indunas were allowed to see her. They number 92. The commander in chief is Jonas, an aged man. The rest are virtually young men. Only three women were ever allowed to see her. One is a bearded female, with beard fully two inches long from her chin. Around the sacred kraal are wooden images, representing every nation of Kaffir, and all sorts of animals beautifully carved out of wood."

"She's" residence was an ordinary round hut, well built, and "when she ate meat she had to be carried by her indunas to another kraal, and even then her nation was not allowed to see her.

"She had her great medicine tree in a forest, and all sorts of signs and symbols existed there, sacred to the Kaffir mind, and in a kraal near the tree were 140 fine fat slaughter oxen inclosed. The general had her carried by her trusty indunas to the head laager and allowed the Knobnosen friendly natives to see this wonderful woman they had so often heard of. Her own tribe also gazed on her in some wonder."

"She is of a light copper color, with a frizzy sort of wool on her head and wears a sort of hood of tiger skin. Only her neck and face are bare. All her body is covered with royal tiger skins. The general would not allow the burghers to interfere with the wooden images, charms, etc. A missionary, the Rev. Mr. Ruiter, who has lived 13 years near Majajie's and only seen her when captured, asked her why she had not allowed him to call on her. She politely replied, 'That is my business.'"

It is feared the queen will not long survive her capture.

A "CIGARIST'S" SCHEME.

A Chicago Man's Plan to Create a Sort of "Smokers' Investment Company."

Since Sir Walter Raleigh introduced the use of tobacco to the Caucasian race "My Lady Nicotine" has been raising havoc with the finances of her devotees, and now comes W. A. Fay with a utopian scheme whereby investing money in cigars becomes like putting it in a savings bank. Mr. Fay proposes to organize a club of 500 men, who are to daily invest 50 cents in cigars. This means $250 per day, and it is argued that if this number of smokers can be induced to work on a united plan of action the profits at the end of a year would be something like $40,000. This sum well invested would yield a revenue which, with subsequent yearly profits, would soon prove a highly profitable investment. Aided by the reverie producing azure haze of a good cigar, the sanguine believers in the plan can see not many years off a magnificent skyscraper of an office building owned by the members of the "Smokers' Investment company."

There is one strong point in favor of the scheme, and that is the fact that those who go into it are not taking any chances to lose, and they may win. If a man is going to spend 50 cents a day for cigars, and there are hundreds of men in this city who do, he might as well buy them at some place where he has a chance to secure a benefit from the profits on his daily expenditure. Of course a gilt edged, ironclad financial committee would be part of the concern. The only thing that can be urged against Mr. Fay at the present time is that he describes himself as a "cigarist."—Chicago Inter Ocean.

END OF THE WORLD.

An Asbury Park Pastor Thinks It Will Come Right After the Chinese War.

The Rev. Howard T. Widdemer, the pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Asbury Park, N. J., has expressed a belief that the world will come to an end in about ten years. Mr. Widdemer was teaching a class of boys in the Sunday school, and one of the boys made a remark about getting married.

"You should not begin so early to think of marriage," said Mr. Widdemer. "When you are 35 years of age, you will be just about old enough."

"But I may be dead by that time," said the boy.

"Yes, I think you will be dead," was Mr. Widdemer's unexpected reply.

When asked to explain, the minister said he thought all persons would be dead before the boy reaches the age of 35.

He bases his belief upon the Scriptures and particularly on that passage which seems to prophesy the end of the world when the gospel shall have been preached unto all the nations. He says that already missionaries have carried the Gospel into every nation save one small country, which, in his opinion, the present China-Japanese war will open up.

"When that country shall be conquered for Christ," said Mr. Widdemer, "the world will come to an end."

Where Is the Peachblow Vase?

It turns out that the Peachblow vase is not in the art collection of the late Mr. Walters of Baltimore, in whose possession it had been supposed to be. This famous little jug, which was intrinsically worth about 2 cents, and which was sold at auction at the Morgan sale eight years ago for $18,000, has disappeared from view as completely as if it had been buried in the earth. It looks very much as if the purchaser, whoever he was, was not proud of his judgment or of his investment.—Boston Herald.

Is Life Worth Living?

That depends upon the Liver. If the Liver is inactive the whole system is out of order—the breath is bad, digestion poor, head dull or aching, energy and hopefulness gone, the spirit is depressed, a heavy weight exists after eating, with general despondency and the blues. The Liver is the housekeeper of the health; and a harmless, simple remedy that acts like Nature, does not constipate afterwards or require constant taking, does not interfere with business or pleasure during its use, makes Simmons Liver Regulator a medical perfection.

I have tested its virtues personally, and know that for Dyspepsia, Biliousness and Throbbing Headache, it is the best medicine the world ever saw. Have tried forty other remedies before Simmons Liver Regulator, and none of them gave more than temporary relief, but the Regulator not only relieved but cured.

GET IN AND HUSTLE.

There has been much talk and very little action so far among the farmers and business men of Sonoma and vicinity in regard to the fruit cannery proposition. It is now about time to get in and do some hustling or else abandon the business altogether.

That a cannery will prove beneficial alike to farmer, property-owner and business man of both town and valley is admitted by every one. That being so, for the life of us we cannot see why some of our citizens do not turn enterprising and call a meeting to discuss the proposition and to devise ways and means to carry out the project. In the language of Lord Dundreary that is "what no fellah can find out."

A cannery in Sonoma not only means better times for our fruit-growers but would also prove a boon to the business man and property-owner both urban and suburban. For a number of years Sonoma has been at a standstill. Our fruit farms have been run in the interest of dishonest fruit-buyers and unprincipled commission merchants and under the present system of disposing of the products of his orchard the farmer can do but little toward making business lively in this town. Our basalt block industry, which a few years ago gave employment to hundreds of blockmakers, is also on the decline and now less than fifty men are employed in our quarries. The result has been that many houses are vacant, rents have come down and all kinds of trade has suffered more or less. This being the case it ought to be patent to both property-owner and business man that something should be done to cause our town to go ahead. That a cannery, as a starter, will do this does not admit of a doubt, if it is properly conducted. Such an enterprise will bring families into our midst who will rent our empty houses and set our carpenters to work building new ones. It will give employment to our idle girls and boys. It will increase the school census children in the district and double our allowance of school money. It will also make business for the the merchant, hotel man, blacksmith and wagon maker, butcher, boot and shoe maker, tinsmith and in fact every tradesman in the place. In other words a cannery in Sonoma will inject new life and vigor into a half dead and alive town, and be the forerunner of other business enterprises. The time has now arrived when the people of Sonoma have got to get in and hustle. Micawber-like they have waited long enough for "something to turn up."

Few people who have not studied one of the annual reports of the Public Printer have any idea of what an immense establishment the Government printing office is. It costs $125,000 a year to run the Congressional record; more than $1,000,000 to pay for the books and pamphlets, mostly reports, turned out every year. In addition to the printed matter the office turns out every year something like 350,000 blank books. Three of these blank books are made annually for the names, addresses and accounts of the Senators and Representatives with the Government. Each of the books has 1,200 pages, weighs 85 pounds and costs to produce $65. It is claimed that no such blank books are made any where else. Last year the bindery used 53,000 sheep skins, 3,000 Turkish goat skins, known as "morocco," and 100,000 square feet of Russian leather, which is made from cow hide, besides other binding material.

THE death of Ward McAllister, the society leader of New York, has thrown the four hundred into consternation for fear no one can be found to take his almost matchless place. If the Vanderbilts and Astors of the Empire City cannot decide on some one in their own "set" to fill the bill, we would suggest, if it be proper form, that they import one of Sonoma's four hundred to take their late leader's place. We can recommend the article.

FACT AND FANCY.

BY JEDWIN NEBWAME.

I wish in this letter to say a few words about a certain law which we all have heard about in connection with the discussions that have taken place in the Congress of the United States, and which has occupied some of the editorial space in the many journals which have taken stand either under the banner of Monometalism or that of Bimetalism. It is known far and wide as Gresham's Law and stated in good homely English is: "In every country where two legal moneys are in circulation the bad money always drives out the good."

Aristophanes, in the Frogs, says: "The public has often seemed to us to treat the wisest and best of our citizens just as it does old and new coins. For we do not use the latter at all except in our own houses or abroad, though they are of purer metal, finer to look at, the only ones that are well coined and round. On the contrary we prefer to use vile copper pieces, struck and stamped in the most infamous fashion." These words were written about four hundred years before Christ, or about nineteen hundred years before Gresham put the thought, fact, in the form quoted above. Gresham was the commercial adviser of Queen Elizabeth.

Here a peculiar fact is noted and a law stated which does not apply to any other article, so we naturally expect that the article to which it applies is a unique one and such is the case. People do not prefer bad apples when they can get good ones. They ask for the best and are disappointed when they do not receive it. The dignity of labor and the utility of competition rest upon an axiom which is just the reverse: viz: "men will prefer the article which is of the better quality and of the higher value." Why is it then that we reverse the rule when money is the article in question?

Of two machines we prefer the better, of two cows, other things being equal, we prefer the one that gives the most milk; but when it comes to the matter of money we have but little choice concerning color or quality between two coins for they are not for our own use, but are to pay creditors. They are both legal tender, either one will cancel the debt, and so we retain the good money and the bad remains in circulation.

But what becomes of the good money? Gide says it goes in three different ways: By hoarding, by selling by weight and by payments to the foreigner. Let us consider these three ways in detail and by doing so we may come to a better understanding of the conflicting views held by the advocates of the single standard and those who see in Bimetalism the cure-all for every economic disease.

Hoarding—This is perhaps the cause least potent in its effect on the money markets of the world. Still it has an effect or is the cause of the disappearance from circulation of much good money. If I wish to lay by for a rainy day some of my earnings, is it not natural that I should choose for such a use the best money in circulation. Should the choice lie between a couple of ten dollar gold pieces, one of which is of recent date and unworn, the other old with the stamp and milling difficult to see, would I not choose the former for my stocking and the latter for exchange? Certainly I should. If the choice lay between the ten dollar gold piece and ten silver dollars it is idle to ask which would be placed in the stocking. So in this way, little by little, good money (in this country it is gold) is withdrawn from circulation.

Payments to the foreigner—These cause the disappearance of much more good money than does hoarding. Though a country need never pay in coin for more than a small part of its purchases still some money (metalic) is used in meeting our foreign debts. Now, the foreigner takes our money and values it in the circulation of debts upon the basis of the fine metal it contains, that is by weight. Now, the ten dollars in silver in the United States will buy just as much as ten dollars in gold, but in England the weight of ten silver dollars does not have the same value that the weight of ten dollars in gold has and so we of necessity in compliance with good business principles send our good money and keep the bad. In other words the good money goes out of circulation.

Sale by weight—This causes the disappearance of more money than either of the other two, but what does it mean? Suppose that in England the ratio of silver to gold is seventeen to one and at the same time in the United States the ratio is sixteen to one. The Englishman sends over sixteen of his seventeen ounces of silver and receives in return one ounce of gold and has remaining one ounce of silver. Is this not a good business transaction? I fancy it is. In this manner much gold has been taken out of our country. Thus does the bad metal drive out the good?

This law is also applicable in the following cases: "Every time a worn money is in circulation together with a newly coined money," "When a depreciated paper money is in circulation with a metalic money." Recall the times of the Civil War. We had paper money in excess, but no gold was in circulation. And last, "every time that a light money is in circulation with a right money or a right money is in circulation with a heavy money."

If any one wishes to look further into this subject it will pay him to consult the political economies of Mills, Jevous, Marshall, Gide, Ricardo, etc.

In the next letter I shall try to lead up a little nearer to the subject of Bimetalism, that is to the question, shall we have a double standard?

The exposure to all sorts and conditions of weather that a lumberman is called upon to endure in the camps often produces severe colds which, if not promptly checked, result in congestion or pneumonia. Mr. J. O. Davenport, ex-manager of the Fort Bragg Redwood Company, an immense institution at Fort Bragg, Cal., says they sell large quantities of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy at the company's store and that he has himself used this remedy for a severe cold and obtained immediate relief. This medicine prevents any tendency of a cold toward pneumonia and insures a prompt recovery. For sale by all dealers. *

Sonoma now has a jail. Several years ago the old jail on Broadway was burned down and two tramps, who had been locked up for the night, were burned to death, since which time the town has had no place in which to lock up offenders. A few months ago the City Trustees let a contract to Wm. Trudgen to construct a jail out of Sonoma Valley building stone, and last Wednesday evening the contractor, having completed his job, turned the edifice over to the Trustees. It is one of the strongest jails in the county. The walls are of solid stone two feet in thickness. There are two cells provided with heavy steel doors and locks. Evil doers will now, no doubt, give this town a wide birth, as he who enters the Sonoma bastile "leaves all hope behind," as its strength will defy the most skilled jail breaker.

FRIGHTFUL DEATH.

Peter Roth, formerly of Windsor in this county but of late employed in Kohler & Frohling's wine cellar near Glen Ellen, met with a frightful death last Wednesday. The unfortunate man was assisting a visiting guager in measuring the dimensions of a tank, which was about eight feet high and five or six feet in diameter. He had climbed to the top of the ladder which overlooked the interior of the tank when by some mischance he slipped and plunged headlong to the bottom and was suffocated to death by gas which had generated in the tank after the wine had been drawn off.

Although Roth was taken out of the tank shortly after, life was found to be extinct. Several years ago two young men met their death in a similar manner at the Hood winery in the upper part of the valley. It is a well known fact among cellarmen that to enter a large empty wine cask that has been in use is certain death unless the deadly gas has first been allowed to escape. It will snuff a man's life out as a quick as a candle.

CITY TRUSTEES.

One Hundred Dollars Appropriated Towards Improving the Plaza—Other Matters.

The Board of City Trustees met in regular monthly session last Wednesday evening, a full Board being present.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved.

It was moved by Trustee Schocken and seconded by Trustee Hartin that a warrant be drawn in favor of Wm. Trudgen for the sum of $323, the amount due on the second installment for building the new City Jail.

Trustee Schocken of the Street Committee reported that the ditch on the West side of Second-street East needs cleaning out.

It was reported by Trustee Bulotti that C. Aguillon is willing to sell to the city a piece of ground in the northwest corner of his property for one hundred and twenty-five dollars. It was moved by Trustee Bulotti and seconded by Trustee Hartin that the land be purchased within three months and converted into a road leading to Mountain Cemetery in order to cut off the steep grade at that point.

Trustee Poppe moved that the Street Committee be instructed to have Third-street West graded and graveled. The motion received a second from Trustee Schocken.

It was moved by Trustee Hartin and seconded by Trustee Bulotti that First-street West south of Napa street be graveled whenever necessary.

On motion of Trustee Poppe one hundred dollars was appropriated for the improvement of the Plaza.

Trustee Poppe moved that the Marshal be instructed to furnish the cells in the City Jail with a board bed and a pair of blankets each. The motion was seconded by Trustee Hartin.

On motion of Trustee Poppe the Marshal was further instructed to bring every person arrested by him before the City Recorder.

The Finance Committee reported that they had examined the financial report of the City Clerk for the six months ending December 31st, 1894, and found the same correct.

Ordinance No. 47 was then introduced by the President for the protection of pedestrians and others. It was read for the first time.

The resignation of Geo. Spanning as cleaner of the fire apparatus was accepted and the appointment of a new man to fill the vacancy was laid over.

The following bills were allowed and ordered paid: John Stademan, labor, $2.00; Fred. Fouts, labor, $1.00; P. Baccala, labor, $5.00; L. Green, lumber, $18.46; J. P. Weems, hauling gravel, $11.00; John Revie, hauling gravel, $17.00; J. E. Robin, salary and services, $20.20; F. Breitenbach, salary for three months, $25; Geo. Spanning, cleaning fire apparatus, $5.00.

The Board then adjourned.

IN THE TOILS OF THE LAW.

Melk Kiser, a well-known farmer residing near this place, was arrested last Wednesday morning by a Deputy United States Marshal and taken to San Francisco and lodged in jail. He was indicted by the Federal Grand Jury last week for defrauding the Government by means of an illicit distillery which he is accused of maintaining in the foothills a few miles west of town for several years. His case will be tried before U. S. District Judge Morrow.

Several months ago, on information furnished by certain parties in this valley, the revenue officers located the illicit distillery and subsequently made a descent upon it and captured a complete distilling outfit and a quantity of moonshine brandy. Kiser was also taken into custody but was released after his property had been seized, although he has been under surveilliance of officers ever since his first arrest. The friends of the accused claim that he was ignorant of our internal revenue laws and had no idea that he was liable to arrest and punishment in conducting the distillery. He is a wiser but a sadder man now, however.

Prices of Wine Advancing.

The California Winemakers Association sold to Lachman & Jacobi, last Wednesday, 1,000,000 gallons of wine for 13 cents per gallon, which is an advance of 5 cents a gallon. This is the first practical result of the syndicate formed by the wine-growers, who have so long been at the mercy of the three-story vineyards in San Francisco.

GLEN ELLEN.

Geo. W. Sparks and Ned Gillan of Sonoma spent a few hours in town last Wednesday.

Mr. J. Chauvet spent several days this week attending to business in San Francisco.

Miss Mabel Harper of Santa Rosa is spending several weeks vacation with her mother in this place.

The approaches to the iron bridge at this place have been repaired and travel is again being resumed.

A regular mail has been established between Glen Ellen and the Home for Feeble Minded Children, Eldridge Postoffice.

Mr. Stanton of Oakland has taken temporary charge of the Southern Pacific depot at this place during the absence of Mr. E. R. Allen.

Mr. E. R. Allen, agent for the Southern Pacific Company at this place, and Miss Ollie Wright were married here last Wednesday. Success and happiness is the wish of their many friends.

We learn that a special train will run from Glen Ellen to Sonoma on the evening of February 22nd for the accommodation of those who desire to attend the masquerade ball in the latter place on the above evening.

THE ups and downs of the average country editor are proverbial. At best his lot is supposed to be a hard one. At times he is compelled to appeal to delinquent subscribers to bring in stove wood, cabbages, etc., to keep him and his family from starving or freezing to death. About the worse case of running a newspaper under difficulties that has ever attracted our attention is that of editor F. W. Conley of the "Weekly Tribune," which is published at Calloway, one of the worst afflicted drouth sections of Nebraska. In a late issue of his paper the poor fellow makes the following appeal, which ought to touch the hearts of every country editor in the land:

"To Brother Printers: Aid is being sent here for the farmers, but we can't issue on aid flour or a piece of side meat, and having run entirely out of paper we have only the office towel left, which has not been washed for seven years. Ask our brother printers to consider our situation with a family to support and nothing coming in and we know their ever-generous disposition will see some way to contribute a little paper or a couple of hours work to keep my journal going for the good it will do the outside world in telling them how this afflicted drouth-stricken district is getting along and also to enable us to get shoes and proper wraps for our wife and four children. All communications will be cheerfully answered and any donations will be acknowledged through the press, whether for us or to be divided among other printers in this district. If further information is needed write to Wm. Van Winkle or to the Tribune and I can assure you that any little gift, if not more than a dime, will be gratefully received."

In another part of his paper the unfortunate editor says: "This week we send out about fifty copies of the Tribune asking help. We would send letters if we had the money to buy stamps to mail them. To have all you want to eat is a luxury in this country nowadays. This setting type with your toes out and the thermometer ten degrees below zero with a fire made of old exchanges is rather tough on a half-fed printer."

Be on your Guard.

If some grocers urge another baking powder upon you in place of the "Royal," it is because of the greater profit upon it. This of itself is evidence of the superiority of the "Royal." To give greater profit the other must be a lower cost powder, and to cost less it must be made with cheaper and inferior materials, and thus, though selling for the same, give less value to the consumer.

To insure the finest cake, the most wholesome food, be sure that no substitute for Royal Baking Powder is accepted by you.

THE WOMAN WITH A PAST.

Her Frequent Appearance In the Drama Is Causing Discussion.

Several high class English weekly reviews have joined the London Times in exhaustive discussion of the modern society drama, or what Labouchere describes as "realistic Magdalen plays." Beerbohm Tree's latest success, "John-a-dreams," is the usual text employed, but the subject has been made widely comprehensive. Mr. Tree was at first somewhat resentful in resisting the attacks upon his piece. In his latest letter, however, he admits, for the sake of the argument, that the woman with a past has been too frequently upon the stage of late, but he affirms: "Certain it is, however, that the best and strongest dramatic work which this decade has produced has been that whose subject some of your correspondents have so severely reprobated. The inference, I make bold to say, is obvious. It is the epoch, not the actor or the author, that is arraigned. The taste of the public is undoubtedly for discussion of such problems, as is evidenced not only on the stage, but in the lecture hall, in magazine articles and in novels. The desirability of such a discussion is a matter of opinion. To go to the root of the whole matter, What is an immoral play? I hold that an immoral play is one which deals in a spirit of flippancy with those passions that are the very central fact of life, which makes a jest of virtue, which flatters vice, which panders to the lower instincts of our nature, and which clothes the nakedness of evil with transparent and alluring garments. I challenge any one to point to a single passage of Mr. Chambers' play which could be thus described."

The Times, in summing up the subject, takes the side of the objectors, saying:

"We have had a great deal too much of the woman with a past, and too many of her. If she had been confined to one play, she would still have had an amount of elucidation altogether out of proportion to her importance. But she is forced upon our attention with such persistent assiduity that people who do not want to hear about her find their opportunities of theater-going seriously curtailed. She has been elevated into a cult. The leading doctrine of the new woman school, which contains a certain number of effeminate males, is that the one thing worth living and working for is free discussion of unsavory subjects by men and women. When a manager desires to have a little variety in the way of a play which does not turn upon adultery, he has to engage in a prolonged struggle with a playwright resentful of the excision of what he thinks the finest thing in the piece."

THE REPORTER'S REPLY.

He Quickly Discovered That He Wasn't Talking to a Gentleman.

On Monday night a well known operatic star appeared at one of the leading opera houses. It was rumored that she had bet $1,000 on Levi P. Morton. A reporter was sent over to the opera house to inquire into it, but the business manager of the troop would not let the reporter enter behind the scenes. When the opera was over, another reporter was sent over to the hotel where the operatic star was stopping. It was half past 11 when he sent up his card requesting to see the singer in regard to her bet. A moment later the business manager came down stairs and confronted the reporter.

"Do you consider yourself a gentleman?" he was asked.

The reporter said he did and asked what the business manager meant by such a question.

The reporter got somewhat heated by this turn of affairs.

"Have you ever been a newspaper man?" he asked of the business manager.

The business manager said he had.

"Well, then," said the reporter, "you must know that a reporter seldom disturbs any one of his own accord. It was my duty to come here and try to see Miss ——. You might have sent word down that I could not see her. You say that Miss —— is a lady. I do not doubt that, but I will say that she did not get a gentleman for her business manager," and before the business manager could reply the reporter was gone. —Syracuse Post.

She Resented the Criticism.

A young man and a lady were walking in the lobby of the Herald Square theater, New York, the other night discussing De Koven's "Rob Roy." During their talk the words, "It is plagiarism, mere plagiarism," were spoken audibly by the gentleman. Straightway a lady behind him exclaimed, "I dare you to say that again." The gentleman, surprised, looked around and ventured to remark mildly that he had a right to his opinion. "I dare you to say that again," repeated the lady, with flashing eyes. "I am Mrs. de Koven." There was nothing more added, as the reader can imagine, and further criticism of "Rob Roy" was deferred until possibly under more favorable conditions.—Philadelphia Press.

Tried the Ice With His Gun.

Aaron Tracey was found dead on Stillwater pond, near Cherryfield, Me., the other night, with a bullet wound through his head. His rifle was standing upright in the ice beside him, and it is evident that he was trying the ice with it, and that it was discharged by breaking through and bringing up on the hammer.—Lewiston Journal.

A Sensitive Lens.

It is stated of the new 40 inch lens that is being made by Alvan Clark, the telescope manufacturer, that the heat of the hands in polishing it so distorts its focus by expansion that three hours are required to cool it sufficiently for testing.

for Infants and Children.

MOTHERS, Do You Know that Paregoric, Bateman's Drops, Godfrey's Cordial, many so-called Soothing Syrups, and most remedies for children are composed of opium or morphine?

Do You Know that opium and morphine are stupefying narcotic poisons?

Do You Know that in most countries druggists are not permitted to sell narcotics without labeling them poisons?

Do You Know that you should not permit any medicine to be given your child unless you or your physician know of what it is composed?

Do You Know that Castoria is a purely vegetable preparation, and that a list of its ingredients is published with every bottle?

Do You Know that Castoria is the prescription of the famous Dr. Samuel Pitcher. That it has been in use for nearly thirty years, and that more Castoria is now sold than of all other remedies for children combined?

Do You Know that the Patent Office Department of the United States, and of other countries, have issued exclusive right to Dr. Pitcher and his assigns to use the word "Castoria" and its formula, and that to imitate them is a state prison offense?

Do You Know that one of the reasons for granting this government protection was because Castoria had been proven to be absolutely harmless?

Do You Know that 35 average doses of Castoria are furnished for 35 cents, or one cent a dose?

Do You Know that when possessed of this perfect preparation, your children may be kept well, and that you may have unbroken rest?

Well, these things are worth knowing. They are facts.

BRAVE GERMAN SAILORS.

Their Rescue of Wrecked Americans a Magnificent Piece of Work.

The invalids wintering at Ventnor, a sheltered nook on the isle of Wight, were recently thrown into a state of excitement much greater than was good for them by the landing of a crew of shipwrecked American sailors, who, as soon as they got ashore, fastened on the spectators and told them a glowing tale of the heroism of their rescuers. The men belonged to the Boston coasting schooner Wilhelmine, which was caught in a terrific gale and driven out to sea. The schooner sprang a leak, and the crew, knowing that the vessel was likely to sink any moment, began to think of the folks at home and to pray. A steamer was seen approaching, but the Wilhelmine's men believed that rescue was impossible with such a sea running and did not even indulge in the luxury of hope.

The stranger was the German steamer Brilliant, and her officers and crew were made of the stoutest human fiber. They launched a lifeboat and rescued those unfortunate Americans with consummate bravery and devotion. The annals of the sea scarcely tell of a grander bit of work. Every one of those Germans carried his life in his hands and knew it as none but experienced sailors could know it. Over and over again they were forced back by the tremendous seas, and the manner in which they maneuvered their boat alongside the sinking schooner and got the men off was as fine a testimony to their skill as the actual undertaking was to their humanity and pluck.

Some of those rough Bostonian sailormen shed tears of gratitude when they were at length put safely aboard the Brilliant. Even at Ventnor and at Southampton, where they were taken at the American consul's expense, their eyes moistened as they told of the Germans' bravery and of the liberal treatment they received on board the Brilliant. It is proposed to bring the Brilliant's service to the official notice of the United States government, with a view of obtaining adequate recognition of the heroism and humanity of her officers and crew.—New York Sun's London Letter.

DID "THE RUBE ACT."

I've got a pigeon story from Flushing, which, next to Gowanus, is perhaps the most famous town of Long Island.

They've got a grand, new fangled, dude pigeon club down there and opened it with an invitation shoot last week.

A lot of cracks were persuaded to go down, but the Flushing chappies had put on so many frills that they thought they would put up a little job on them.

Louis Duryea, who is a very clever man with a gun, was dressed up to look like a Long Island hayseed, in rubber boots, an old canvas jacket and a slouch hat. He was introduced as a fellow who thought he could shoot and had roped in with some of the crowd. The committee demurred at first, but when he pulled out his $25 entrance fee they thought they might as well gather it in.

"Davenport," as he called himself, was guyed unmercifully every time he went to the trap. He acted his part to perfection, was very awkward in handling his gun and appeared surprised every time he brought down a bird.

After Davenport had killed 15 straight the Flushing dudes didn't guy him so much. At 20 straight he was greeted with dead silence, and all the Flushing cracks had dropped out.

So Davenport went on and won the cup and all the "mon," with a clean record of 25 straight, and, what is more, he got away from Flushing without any of the local talent getting onto him, and perhaps they won't know until they read this of the nice little gag Louis Duryea of Glen Cove put up on them.—Cholly Knickerbocker in New York Recorder.

A SUDDEN CHANGE.

A French Nobleman's Short Stay at Washington Calls For a Surmise.

A certain young French nobleman who arrived in Washington a day or two ago left in a hurry for his own shores, giving as his reason to the clerk of the up town hotel where he stopped that he could not enjoy himself in a country whose language he did not understand. He came expecting to remain several weeks, and there is a romance connected with his abrupt departure.

It seems that two summers ago he met a fair young American girl in Paris, and he fell in love with her speedily or with the fortune she was reputed to possess. At all events, the affair seemed to progress smoothly, and there was every prospect of a union. It was to claim the hand of the young lady that brought the gentleman to Washington, and on the day he landed he sent back a cablegram to his mother, saying, "All is well; am very happy." The next day he cabled, "Everything broken off; return at once."

What sudden cloud obscured his visions of bliss none except the parties to the episode know. Whether fate, in the shape of a stern father, interposed to break off the match is only for conjecture, or it may be that the young aristocrat found at the last moment that satisfactory marriage settlements could not be made. At any rate, he vanished, and one American girl will be all the happier for getting an American husband.—Washington Post.

Gullible Americans.

In spite of the recent conviction of Jacques and Thomas for conspiracy in obtaining money from credulous Americans by means of the unclaimed estate dodge, the game is being tried again, this time in connection with the so called Hyde estate. An agent recently came from America to prosecute the pretended claim. An official of the English high court of justice has notified the United States embassy that there is not the slightest basis for this claim.—London Dispatch.
